Terms of Service

Briopost · Last updated November 12, 2026 · info@briopost.com · briopost.com

> Briopost is preparing to open to customers. This document describes how Briopost works for customers from the day accounts open, and how this website works today.

1. Agreement

These terms are between you and Briopost LLC, a Wyoming limited liability company, 32 North Gould Street, Sheridan, WY 82801 ("Briopost", "we", "us"). By creating an account or using Briopost you agree to them. If you use Briopost for a company or team, you confirm you may accept these terms for it.

2. Your account

You must be 18 or over and give accurate details. Keep your sign-in private and tell us at once if you think someone else has used it. You are responsible for what happens under your account. If we learn that someone under 18 has an account, we close it and delete its content.

3. Workspaces and teams

A workspace can have several members, each an owner, an admin or a member. The workspace owner is responsible for who is invited, for what members do in the workspace, and for the subscription. Members can see and use what the workspace's roles allow. Each person who connects LinkedIn does so for their own profile only.

4. What Briopost does

Briopost helps you plan, write and design LinkedIn posts and, when you connect LinkedIn, publish them to your own profile. Briopost never publishes a post unless you have confirmed that specific post yourself. Reminders and suggestions are prompts only. Moving or editing a confirmed post removes its confirmation, so you confirm it again.

5. Your content

You keep ownership of what you create and upload. You give Briopost permission to store, process and display it, and to send it to your AI providers and to LinkedIn, only as needed to provide the service you ask for. You confirm you have the right to use what you upload and that it does not break the law or anyone's rights. If you send us ideas or feedback, we may use them without owing you anything.

6. AI output and your own AI keys

Briopost uses AI to draft text and pictures. AI output can be wrong, repetitive or unsuitable. You are responsible for reading, editing and approving anything before it is posted, and for the facts and claims in your posts.

You bring your own AI keys (for example from Anthropic, OpenAI or fal.ai) and pay those providers directly. Keep your keys private and set spending limits with the provider; the provider's bill, not Briopost's estimate, is the real figure, and we are not responsible for a provider's charges. We store your keys only to make the requests you ask for, and never show a saved key back in full. Each provider's own terms apply to your use of it. We may give new accounts a small free AI demo (up to $0.25 of usage) on our own account, and we may change or stop it at any time.

7. LinkedIn

You must follow LinkedIn's own terms and policies when you use Briopost with LinkedIn. Briopost is independent of LinkedIn and is not affiliated with or endorsed by LinkedIn. Connect only your own LinkedIn account. LinkedIn can change, limit or end the access Briopost has, or restrict your account, at any time and without telling us; if that happens Briopost may stop being able to publish, and we are not responsible for it. You can disconnect LinkedIn in Briopost at any time, and you can also remove Briopost's access in your LinkedIn settings.

8. Acceptable use

Do not use Briopost to post unlawful, deceptive, hateful or infringing material; to send spam or unwanted bulk messages; to harass anyone; to pretend to be another person or organization; to scrape or harvest Briopost, other people's content or LinkedIn by automated means; to connect a LinkedIn account you are not allowed to use; to attempt to break or overload the service, or to see another person's content or get around the separation between accounts; to share, sell or publish your sign-in or keys, or use someone else's keys without their permission; or to resell it without our written agreement. See also the Email Policy.

9. Pricing, free trial and billing

Briopost has one plan: $15 a month or $144 a year. Every new person gets a 14-day free trial with no card required. There is one free trial per person. If you do not subscribe when the trial ends, you are not charged.

Founder offer: the first 50 customers can subscribe for $99 a year, and that price is locked for 24 months. Afterward the plan renews at the regular price, and we will tell you before that happens.

Payments are taken by Stripe. Subscriptions renew automatically each month or year until you cancel. The price and what it includes are shown before you pay, and the approximate cost of each paid AI action is shown before it runs. We will not charge you for something you have not been told about. If we ever change the price, we will tell you before the new price applies to you.

10. Cancellation and refunds

You can cancel at any time in Briopost, or by writing to info@briopost.com.

- Monthly plans: cancellation takes effect at the end of the period you have paid for. You keep access until then. We do not refund the current month.
- Annual plans: when you cancel, we refund the unused part of the year, pro rata from the day you cancel, to the card you paid with.

- Free trial: cancel any time before it ends and nothing is charged.

Refunds go back to the original payment method through Stripe and usually appear within a few business days. Nothing in this section limits rights you have under the law.

11. Support

Write to info@briopost.com. During the beta we reply within 2 business days, and after the beta within 1 business day. A business day is Monday to Friday, excluding U.S. public holidays. When we are away, an automatic reply will say so and when to expect an answer. These are goals we hold ourselves to, not a guarantee of any particular result.

12. Availability and changes

We work to keep Briopost running but do not promise it will always be available or error-free. We may change or retire features, and will give notice of changes that significantly affect you.

13. Ending your account

You can stop using Briopost and delete your account at any time. A deleted account is held for 30 days, during which you can sign in and reactivate it with nothing lost; after that it is deleted for good (see the Privacy Policy). Cancel any paid plan before you delete your account; reactivating does not restart a canceled plan. We may suspend or close an account that breaks these terms or puts the service or others at risk, and will tell you why where we can.

14. Disclaimers and liability

Briopost is provided as it is. To the extent the law allows, we are not liable for indirect or consequential loss, lost profits or lost data, and our total liability to you for any claim is limited to the amount you paid us for Briopost in the 12 months before the claim. Nothing here limits liability that cannot be limited by law.

15. Governing law

These terms are governed by the laws of Wyoming, without regard to its conflict-of-laws rules. Any dispute about them or about Briopost will be brought in the state or federal courts located in Wyoming, and you and we consent to those courts. If you are a consumer, this does not remove any protection that the law of the place where you live gives you and that cannot be waived.

16. Changes to these terms and contact

We may update these terms and will post the new version here with a new date, and tell account holders by email about changes that matter. Questions: info@briopost.com.

17. The invite-only beta

While Briopost is in its invite-only beta, this section applies as well as the rest of these terms. If it disagrees with another section about the beta, this section wins.

- Invite-only and free. The beta is open only to people we invite, and it is free. Do not let people outside your invitation use your account.
- Provided as it is. The beta may have bugs, change, lose features or end, and data could be lost. Export anything you want to keep.
- At least 7 days' notice. We will email you at least 7 days before the beta ends, and at least 7 days before any change that significantly affects beta testers, so you have time to export your work. The only exception is a change we must make at once for security, to comply with the law, or because a provider such as LinkedIn changes or ends its access; then we will tell you as soon as we can.
- After the beta. Beta access may later become a paid plan. Section 9 sets the price and the free trial, and nothing will be charged without telling you the price first and getting your agreement.