> Briopost is preparing to open to customers. This document describes how Briopost works for customers from the day accounts open, and how this website works today.

1. Agreement

These terms are between you and Briopost (operated by Andrew Avery). By creating an account or using Briopost you agree to them. If you use Briopost for a company, you confirm you may accept these terms for it.

2. Your account

You must be 18 or over and give accurate details. Keep your sign-in private and tell us at once if you think someone else has used it. You are responsible for what happens under your account.

3. What Briopost does

Briopost helps you plan, write and design LinkedIn posts and, when you connect LinkedIn, publish them. Briopost never publishes a post unless you have confirmed that specific post yourself. Reminders and suggestions are prompts only.

4. Your content

You keep ownership of what you create and upload. You give Briopost permission to store, process and display it, and to send it to our AI providers and to LinkedIn, only as needed to provide the service you ask for. You confirm you have the right to use what you upload and that it does not break the law or anyone's rights.

5. AI output

Briopost uses AI to draft text and pictures. AI output can be wrong, repetitive or unsuitable. You are responsible for reading, editing and approving anything before it is posted, and for the facts and claims in your posts.

6. LinkedIn

You must follow LinkedIn's own terms and policies when you use Briopost with LinkedIn. Briopost is independent of LinkedIn and is not affiliated with or endorsed by LinkedIn. LinkedIn can change or limit its interface, and Briopost cannot control that.

7. Acceptable use

Do not use Briopost to post unlawful, deceptive, hateful or infringing material; to send spam or unwanted bulk messages; to harass anyone; to attempt to break or overload the service; or to resell it without our written agreement. See also the Email Policy.

8. Fees

If Briopost charges for any part of the service, the price and what it includes will be shown to you before you pay, and the approximate cost of each paid AI action is shown before it runs. We will not charge you for something you have not been told about.

9. Availability and changes

We work to keep Briopost running but do not promise it will always be available or error-free. We may change or retire features, and will give notice of changes that significantly affect you.

10. Ending your account

You can stop using Briopost and close your account at any time (see the Privacy Policy for deletion). We may suspend or close an account that breaks these terms or puts the service or others at risk, and will tell you why where we can.

11. Disclaimers and liability

Briopost is provided as it is. To the extent the law allows, we are not liable for indirect or consequential loss, lost profits or lost data, and our total liability to you for any claim is limited to the amount you paid us for Briopost in the 12 months before the claim. Nothing here limits liability that cannot be limited by law.

12. Changes to these terms and contact

We may update these terms and will post the new version here with a new date, and tell account holders by email about changes that matter. Questions: info@briopost.com.
